

STREET CAR SERVICE IS PARALYZED OVER A WIDE AREA

has made street travel in New York a miserable job.

The growing needs for the delivery of mail and food supplies forced many delivery wagons to attempt the streets in spite of the forbidding conditions. Sending out the great delivery trucks was impossible; the horses which were called upon to draw the smaller wagons suffered special hardships. Every block was marked by one or more abandoned vehicles.

The women who are digging out the hydrants, said Commissioner Adams, "are putting in double time, many of them, and are showing a spirit that is very commendable."

COMMISSIONER WARNS OF FIRE PERIL.

"This is a hard time for the firemen. We had forty-three fires between 5 o'clock Sunday morning and 5 o'clock this morning, twenty-eight of them in Manhattan, eleven in Brooklyn, three in the Bronx and one in Queens. The firemen had great difficulty in getting to the fires, owing to the snow in the street, and there were numerous breakdowns. As the fire in Gibson's studio this morning Chief Kenyon turned in a alarm because of the difficulty of the different companies had in responding to the fire. Ordinarily this would have been only a second alarm."

In view of the serious handicaps which the firemen are working under, to caution every one in the city, particularly housekeepers, janitors and furnace men to exercise unusual caution. There are always many more fires during very cold weather, owing to the fact that buildings are over-heated and practically all of the population is within doors. Janitors and housekeepers seem to forget that overheated stove pipes and furnaces are a prolific source of fires in this kind of weather.

"All of the fire don't apply with double force in weather like this. Some of the don'ts to which I will call particular attention to now are: Don't overheat your stove or furnace and don't let the flues are in good condition.

Don't throw away lighted matches, cigars or cigarettes.

Don't let kitchen stove escape to street and be careful to remove all light rubbish of the kind which easily catches on fire.
